As anyone who has used a 5-gallon bucket of paint knows, the tint-ports that most of us use to pour our paint from, don't function well after the first use. Once reapplying the factory cap to the tint-port, those caps essentially glue in place. They are not made for repeated use. Removing them multiple times can lead to frustration, splattered or spilled paint, and the factory caps breaking, making it near impossible to reopen the bucket. CAPS-LOCK is a simple solution to a common problem for painters when working with 5-gallon buckets. <http://www.capslockpaint.com>
